Introduction and Objectives: Mostly, surgery was the only solution to shape and lift the buttock. Those solutions have the advantages but also more disadvantages like scars, granulomas, calcifications and short lasting results.

Materials and Methods: We want to represent the new treatment for the banana fold and the buttock lift based on the laser lipolysis treatment. It's in office treatment under tumescent anaesthesia. Only 1 session is necessary. With the canula, we heat under the skin to produce lifting and tightening effect. Mostly, there is no down time at all.

Results: The treatment was done over 50 clients. The average age was between 22 and 55 years. 70% of them were very happy with result, 25% was moderate happy and the rest was minimal to moderate happy with the result, The results are long-lasting and very promising.

Conclusion: Laser lipolysis represents promising minimally invasive treatment under local anaesthesia for the buttock lift and shaping. It is the only effective treatment for the lifting effect
